

Published based on What Can the Boston Red Sox Expect in 2010

What Can the Boston Red Sox Expect in 2010

Spring time means one thing time for the Boston Red Sox to take the field and to make another run for the post season. There is a lot of hope for the team from Boston this year, many people think that this will be the year that they will go back to the World Series and reclaim their spot in baseball history.

Now we all know the importance that a strong bullpen will play when it comes to making the best out of a baseball game. The bullpen is where things either go good for you, or where you are made to be miserable when playing the game.

Beyond there needing to be a strong starter, there will also need to be several other players that will be able to close out for the Red Sox. These closer are a part of the team that many people tend to overlook when talking about the power that they can offer the team. These closers will need to be in place in order to make sure that the Red Sox win their games.

now there is little doubting that the team will have any trouble when it comes to playing the outfield. The reason for this is, that many of the players that played for Boston last year are returning this season in order to ensure that they help Boston win as many games as possible.

The Outfield will be the key part of the Red Sox multilayer plan to win the World Series this year. The team will have a lot of success this season if they are able to make the plays in the outfield that will shut the other team down in the end.

The Red Sox have what is considered in baseball to be one of the best infields in the entire baseball world. There is rarely a play that gets past the Red Sox and as a result keeps the other teams from scoring several runs as a result. This is the one area of the team that needs little to no work. This is the strongest part of the teams entire defense. This is why Boston in a lot of people's eyes this season is destined to do great things on the field.

The power that will be heading to the plate this season will be some of the strongest that has played for Boston is a long while. There will be a lot of players this season that will be aiming for the outside of the park when they hit their balls. This will as a result lead to several home runs that the opposing pitcher will just have to stand a watch. Expect to receive a souvenir anytime you head out to a Red Sox game this season. This will be a season of home runs for the team.

In the end, it makes no difference if you are a true blue fan or just one that is looking for a winning team to get behind, there is no wrong reason as to why this team will not be able to make the most out of their opportunities and as a result renew the interest that they had a couple of years ago into the team and their drive for yet another World Series title.

Freddie Brister is a big fan of Baseball check out his: Oregon Watch

You can also find this article published on What Can the Boston Red Sox Expect in 2010, and on the tag pages baseball, college, College Football, college sports, football, Sports.