

Published based on Having A Look At The Tennis Champ Rafael Nadal

Having A Look At The Tennis Champ Rafael Nadal

Born in Manacor, Spain on June 3, 1986, nobody could have guessed young Rafael Nadal would so soon become a champion. His interest in tennis commenced at the tender young age of 3 and from then, his love of the sport grew into an occupation. Find out more about how he became what he's today and the list of accomplishments he had made in the world of tennis.

One awesome achievement this young champion made is winning the French Open. The part of his winning this competition that is unique is that he won it the first time around. He was also only nineteen years old at the time. Taking this open in force got him instant fame and the admiration of tennis fans around the world. He won four French Open games consecutively up until 2008.

The year 2008 brought another major accomplishment for this tennis super star. He took the Olympic Gold in this year. This year also brought about another achievement that tells a great deal about this young mans personality too. He set up the organisation called The Rafa Nadal Foundation. This organisation is for underprivileged youngsters or those coping with disabilities.

The influence from his family is how Nadal started on his road to celebrity and success. His uncle, Toni Nadal, got him started when he was 4 years old. The love and attention his uncle took with him grew through his adolescence years and into his teens when he began to take the tennis world by surprise. This same uncle was his coach all though Nadals pro tour.

While still a young competitor, this tennis champ played only one of the Grand Slam tournaments before landing at the Wimbledon Championships in 2002. This is a fantastic accomplishment for one so young. His talent in tennis is trendy and potent. This style can be seen by his one handed forehand stroke. The unique side of this playing stroke is he started playing left handed. He became a professional tennis player in 2001.

Making history in the 2004 Davis Cup last competition, this young man was named the youngest ever player to win an international singles match. He was 18 years of age at this time, making his mark deeply in the minds of tennis fans all over the world. The next year, 2005, he set another record for being the youngest male player to win 11 straight competitions.

Rafael Nadal continued to make wins at a few tournaments and championship matches till the time of today. He has made an indelible mark in the world of tennis in a way no other player before him ever has. Taking his age and number of achievements into account permits the room for a certain and fantastic sort of astonishment and respect.

You can also find this article published on Having A Look At The Tennis Champ Rafael Nadal, and on the tag pages nadal, rafael nadal, Tennis.